

↑ It is now possible to install a wall-mounted tap perfectly at the first attempt. An X-ray view through the prewall shows that the tap is firmly anchored to a Geberit installation element.

Clever tap system

Electronic washbasin taps for public sanitary facilities can be slim and elegant, yet still robust and safe to use. With the exception of the infrared sensor, all the electronic components as well as the mixer, valves and power supply are housed in a function box that is installed in the prewall in an easily accessible position.

- Sophisticated installation technology facilitates an error-free installation at the first attempt
- Wall-mounted and deck-mounted tap housing models in two different designs
- Choice between connection to mains supply, battery operation or self-sustaining power supply system

The modular tap system impresses thanks to its attractive price-performance ratio.
